Art Festival

Last Thursday, Brentford High School for Girls hosted an art festival featuring work from a range of local primary schools. The exhibition included a variety of creative pieces, showing different styles, colours, mixed media, fashion designing and many different techniques. Pupils' artwork was displayed around the venue, and visitors had the chance to walk through and enjoy what each school had produced. It was an event that celebrated young artists and their talent. I really liked it. It was fun and interactive.

By Miesha (Osprey, year 5)

Last week Brentford High School for Girls visited year 5 to work with the children for a photography competition, with the work being displayed at an arts festival in the school. The teachers wanted the children to find a piece of artwork and recreate it using their imagination. This meant that they had to improvise what they needed to replace the original pieces in the work

Here you can see some of the work the children did, alongside the original pieces of work.
